RATIONALE

Graduates in the Visual Arts are expected to have an understanding of issues and responsibilities related to a profession in the arts. This course is designed to provide information and procedures that will assist in preparing the artist to function competently and professionally in a visual arts career. The practical application of research, the ability to be articulate about their own work and be constructive in their discussion of the work of others will be particularly valuable for those students applying for post-graduate study. Where appropriate, input will be provided by arts professionals involved in arts practice and the arts industry, as well as specialist staff within the University.

SYNOPSIS

Graduates in creative arts need an understanding of the issues related to a profession in the arts. This course provides students with an understanding of the commercial, legal and administrative aspects of the profession. Through information and procedures it will prepare the artist and craftsperson to function competently and professionally in a visual arts career. The criteria involved in making sound aesthetic decisions will be reviewed as will the role of art criticism and theory and its relevance to a personal philosophy. The development of a positive personal concept will be encouraged through research and analysis.

OBJECTIVES

Through successful completion of this course students will have:

- an understanding of the role and responsibility of both the artist and the gallery.
- an understanding of the procedures involved in the photography of art work to the high standard required by galleries, journals, and funding bodies.

- a familiarization with the procedures relating to grant application at regional, state, national, and international level.
- acquired an understanding of taxation and its application to the artist.
- developed an understanding of legal issues such as insurance responsibilities, contracts, copyright implications, as pertaining to artists.
- an appreciation of the importance of the use of archivally sound materials, and the conservation and handling of art work.
- an understanding of the financial framework of business in respect to self-employment and marketing as they apply to the artist.
- an awareness of the networks and arts-related organizations in place to assist and advise arts workers in matters of professional development.
- an understanding of curatorial procedures, informed aesthetic decision making, and art criticism as applied to arts practice.
- an understanding and perception of responsibilities and requirements in preparing and mounting an exhibition.
