SYNOPSIS

Students undertaking the Honours program in Visual Arts will normally explore studio-based practice. Studio selection will be based on proven expertise in one or more of the seven areas offering specialization: ceramics, painting printmaking, sculpture, textiles, drawing, curatorial studies provided suitable supervision and studio space is available. Studio practice should indicate a clear emergence of an individual visual language as well as a high level of technical and artistic competence. Students will submit a comprehensive project proposal outlining both the concept and practice of their particular visual field. The context of their research is a significant factor. This should take into account personal and studio positions in relation to Australian and international concerns. Appropriate historical underpinnings should be linked to concepts of contemporary theoretical thinking. The Project Development proposal should also include a selection of comprehensive supportive drawings, photographs, marquettes, folios, etcetera of the work in progress as well as an indication of the final exhibition format.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of the Studio Practice and Projects Development course students should be able to demonstrate:

- an advanced level of creative practice which predicts the eventual Project resolution;
- an ability to document the various stages in the research and development of the work;
- a knowledge of the integration of theory and practice in their studio practice in both a specific and general context.

TOPICS

Description	Weighting (%)
1. In consultation with their supervisor, students will complete research and practical work in their studio area and present at least two discussion papers associated with the research and preparation of the project development.	0.00
