SYNOPSIS

This course introduces students to the complex world of commerce. It emphasises the practical and functional nature of business decisions from the perspective of financial accounting; managerial costing and budgetary policies; investing; and financing of business operations. Designed to provide a solid foundation for further study in both accounting and non-accounting disciplines, the course provides a logical introduction to the accounting environment and to the common financial accounting (external) reports and management accounting (internal) tools used for decision-making purposes. As it is important to develop an understanding not only of how the accounting reports are used, but how they are derived, the course also addresses the procedures underlying their preparation.

Completion of this course should enable students to:

- discuss the environment of accounting and finance in Australia;
- distinguish the key features of the environment of accounting and finance in realistic examples;
- prepare each of two major financial accounting reports (Statement of Financial Position; Statement of Financial Performance); discuss the key features of the Statement of Cash Flows; and understand and discuss the accounting principles upon which they are based;
- analyse basic business transactions in relation to their effects on the accounting equation and identified individual accounts;
- discuss the role and function of the major components in the accounting cycle (source documents; journals; ledger) and demonstrate the transfer and processing of financial information for basic business transactions and events using these devices;

- contrast the alternative accounting transaction recognition systems (cash; accrual);
- perform balance day adjustments and prepare final financial accounting statements by making use of worksheets;
- discuss the effect of merchandising operations on the financial accounting process;
- for financial statement analysis, (a) discuss and apply common analysis techniques including financial ratios, (b) interpret the results of these analysis techniques and discuss the implications for a business, and (c) discuss the limitations of financial ratio analysis;
- discuss business cost classifications, and apply this knowledge to undertake Cost-Volume-Profit analysis;
- discuss the budgeting process, prepare budgets, and demonstrate the relevance of budgeting towards organisational planning and control;
