SYNOPSIS

United Germany is a major economic, political and cultural force in the world, in particular in the European Union. German is widely used in central Europe as a means of communication, especially in business and trade, between partners who have no other language in common. German has contributed key terminology to fields such as music, science and engineering. German is also a major Australian community language with special historical significance to south-eastern Queensland. This course will extend students' competence in German by involving them with spoken and written texts and tasks of various types from contemporary media, German literature of the 18th and 19th and 20th centuries, and their (other) area of major study. Extensive use will be made of internet resources and students will be encouraged to publish some of their own materials on the web.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course students will be able to demonstrate:

- enhanced ability to comprehend texts and to communicate in speech and in writing on the range of topics covered in the course;
- knowledge of contemporary issues in the German-speaking countries;
- ability to manipulate linguistic elements to create effective texts of various types;
- ability to locate relevant resources using German web-based search tools and to publish their own materials in German on the web;
- an appreciation and knowledge of the literary texts and eras studied.

(d) Students who have undertaken all of the required assessments in the course but who have failed to meet some of the specified objectives of the course within the normally prescribed time may be awarded the temporary grade: IM Incomplete-Makeup). An IM grade will only be awarded when, in the opinion of the examiner, a student will be able to achieve the remaining objectives of the course after a period of non-directed personal study. (e) Students who, for medical, family/personal, or employment-related reasons, are unable to complete an assignment or sit for an examination at the scheduled time, may apply to defer an assessment in the course. Such a request must be accompanied by appropriate supporting documentation.
