RATIONALE

This course will offer an historical perspective of the visual arts and establish the basic philosophical concepts from which to develop an aesthetic awareness and appreciation of the art object within a socio- political context. The significance of the role of the artist through the interaction of intellect, personality, spirituality, and culture in the creative act of art making will be explored by way of art works which reflect, interpret, and comment upon the events, politics, and social histories of their respective eras.

SYNOPSIS

This course will offer an introduction to an historical perspective of the visual arts and craft arts and establish the basic philosophical concepts from which to develop an aesthetic awareness and appreciation of art works within a socio- political context. The significance of the changing role of the artist within society will be explored by way of art and craft works which reflect, interpret, and comment upon the events, politics, social histories, and technological developments of their respective eras. Students will also be encouraged to appreciate the historical underpinnings which have shaped and directed the practice of art and craft of which they are now a part.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course students will be able to:

- have an awareness of the beginning and continuation of an artistic tradition which reflects both personal and social responses within an historical context;
- comprehend the basic philosophical concepts which will enable them to critically analyse and discuss works of art in an historical and social context;

- acquire a knowledge of the development of artistic form through styles drawn from various periods of western and other cultural traditions;
- develop a knowledge of the grammar and terminology of art theory; principles of aesthetics and art criticism; basic concepts of two- and three-dimensional form in the visual arts;
- recognize the style of a work of art and identify the historical and socio-political influences and their context;
- clearly and logically express personal ideas pertaining to art historical and theoretical issues supported by evidence of research and analysis.
