SYNOPSIS

The study of the performance event, and of dramatic texts and theatre theories, provides insights into human experience and places these experiences in the context of society. This course provides students with an introductory overview of some of the major plays, theories and historical features of the modern era (specifically 20th century) in drama. Texts will be drawn from the European, Australian and Asian performance traditions. Continuing on from Introduction to the History and Theory of Drama 1, this course will develop students' ability to formulate and present academic arguments about drama.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course students will have achieved:

1. an understanding of the way in which drama functions within theatre and modern society;
2. a knowledge of specific dramatic and theoretical texts from the Western and non-western traditions of theatre in the modern age;
3. a satisfactory achievement in the application of the fundamental principles of scholarly method as they apply to the drama.
4. an introduction to critical awareness of dramatic texts.
