RATIONALE

Rapid changes in educational institutions and the growing diversity of contexts place intense demands on the role of educators. This course provides further professional experience in a new context. The pre-service teacher will have further opportunity to bring together both theory and practical components of the course. The integration of theory with the active daily tasks associated with a teaching career is an essential step in the transition from tertiary institution to the professional work place. Further, it is vital that pre-service teachers continue to development their professional knowledge basis in preparation for beginning teaching. During this final semester as part of this professional development, pre-service teacher will be presented with opportunities in workshops to keep abreast of developments and issues relating to both workplace teaching and to their role in the education profession in general.

SYNOPSIS

The professional experience to date has enabled pre-service teachers to be involved in the normal day to day running of an educational institution and in the teaching of several curriculum areas over an extended period of time. This course offers the pre-service teacher a further extensive period in the field in a new context. The block professional experience will require involvement in the planning and implementation of units of work along with the daily administrative and professional requirements of an educator. The experience will require pre-service teachers to play an active role in the construction of their own practical theories. Their workplace experience will enable them to question, criticise and reformulate their assumptions about the nature of educators' work. Further, the pre-service teacher will be made aware of various professional and organisational requirements necessary for their induction into teaching. Students undertaking this course are required to complete a 30 day professional experience placement in an approved educational setting. A further 20 days of non-supervised experience (as negotiated with the course examiner) is also a requirement of this course. IMPORTANT NOTE: Working with Children: State law in Queensland requires that all adults (including university students, pre-service educators, trainers, vocational teachers, industry educators) working with children under the age of 18, in the State of Queensland*, obtain approval before commencing such work. Many education courses include a practical component (professional experience, project work, research, assessment etc.) that may require engagement with children under the age of 18. It is your responsibility to ensure that you possess a current suitability card (Blue Card) before commencing any practical components of this course. DO NOT PARTICIPATE IN ANY PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE WITH CHILDREN UNDER 18 UNLESS YOU POSSESS A CURRENT 'BLUE CARD'.
