SYNOPSIS

This is the third course in which students develop concepts and skills, explore materials and processes through studio workshops. Students may narrow their focus to two studio areas at this stage. Workshops consist of lectures, demonstrations and practice. Drawing is a supportive element of this course. Studio workshops will be underpinned by the history and theory component of the program.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course students will:

1. continue to develop additional handskills, knowledge of materials and their chosen application through practice in selected areas (Assessment item Work submitted with relevant journals and materials refers);
2. demonstrate increased understanding and application of design elements necessary for expanding perception and the quality of visual expression (Assessment item Work submitted with relevant journals and materials refers);
3. continue to develop a broader understanding of the aesthetic and historical background to their prepared studies (Assessment item Work submitted with relevant journals and materials refers);
4. have increased ability to exercise personal creative potential through deeper involvement in chosen area/areas of practice (Assessment item Work submitted with relevant journals and materials refers);
5. further develop the ability to critically evaluate individual creative products and work by other artists (Assessment item Work submitted with relevant journals and materials refers).

TOPICS

Description	Weighting (%)
1. There will be continuing workshop-based demonstrations and related lectures. The art-making process will involve students in integrating theory and practice as they experiment with materials and techniques. Visual Arts students will enrol in 2 concurrent series of workshops reflecting their gradually narrowing focus. Option students will enrol in one or two concurrent series of workshops. Students who undertake only one series of workshops must combine them with a personally designed project which will normally be related to that workshop.	100.00
