SYNOPSIS

United Germany is a major economic, political and cultural force in the world, in particular in the European Union. German is widely used in central Europe as a means of communication, especially in business and trade, between partners who have no other language in common. German has contributed key terminology to fields such as music, science and engineering. German is also a major Australian community language with special historical significance to south-eastern Queensland. This course will further extend students' communicative competence in German by involving them in learning activities based around various text types, spoken, written and visual, dealing with topics of cultural, historical and literary interest. Where appropriate, texts relevant to students' other major areas of study interest can be used to supplement and complement their learning in German. Students will be encouraged to begin specializing in an area of linguistic or literary/cultural interest and to explore possibilities of later professional application of their German learning. The internet will be used to source texts and other learning materials and to communicate with other speakers and/or learners of German world-wide.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course students will be able to demonstrate:

1. enhanced ability to comprehend texts and to communicate in speech and in writing on the range of topics covered in the course;
2. knowledge of contemporary issues in the German-speaking countries;
