RATIONALE

Improved teaching effectiveness is fostered by the teacher's commitment to regular constructive self-evaluation of all aspects of their teaching. The capacity for critical self-reflection and the willingness to act and modify teaching and learning strategies in response to this, are the hallmarks of effective teachers. Participation in a guided 'evaluation of teaching process' is an enabling tool that allows tertiary teachers to engage in continual improvement. In recognition of the increasingly complex nature of tertiary teaching in the knowledge society and the importance of 'communities of learners', this course is delivered online and allows tertiary teachers to collectively build capacity through participation in focused discussions. Recognition of recent and current professional practice and development activities that enhance the work of tertiary educators is an integral part of this course.

SYNOPSIS

Tertiary educators will be introduced to the key capacity-building processes of constructive self-evaluation and self-reflection. This course requires students to evaluate the success or otherwise of the 'teaching capacity enhancement plan' developed in course TEA5101. An action learning process will also be used to allow participating tertiary educators to identify and develop key features to be incorporated into an ongoing cycle for improvement. This course seeks to recognise appropriate professional development activities or other relevant activities that can be demonstrated as contributing to the development of teaching capacities in tertiary educators.

OBJECTIVES

The course objectives define the student learning outcomes for a course. The assessment item(s) that may be used to assess student achievement of an objective are shown in parenthesis. On completion of this course students will be able to:

1. analyse their own practice; (Portfolio; Planning for Continuous Improvement)
2. demonstrate capacities to engage in a process of evaluation and self-reflection; (Portfolio; Planning for Continuous Improvement)
3. evaluate and respond to emerging practices affecting tertiary teachers, especially those in their own specialist teaching areas; (Portfolio; Planning for Continuous Improvement)
4. provide examples that demonstrate the relationship between 'professional learning communities' and improved teaching; (Portfolio; Planning for Continuous Improvement);
5. develop a plan for continuous improvement (Planning for Continuous Improvement);
6. develop and justify a portfolio of evidence that verifies successful completion of 30 hours of approved professional development activities (Portfolio).
