RATIONALE

Superannuation plays a major role in the Government's retirement income policy. The ageing of the Australian population, increasing life spans, earlier retirement patterns and community expectations of higher living standards in retirement have all contributed to the strain on the provision of the old age pensions issued by the Government. The Government is keen to encourage greater provision for retirement, and superannuation is seen as a suitable savings vehicle. The Government aims to increase retirement savings by offering tax assistance to superannuation savings and through compulsory superannuation savings in the form of the Superannuation Guarantee contributions. There is also an ongoing thrust to simplify superannuation rules and to broaden the tax concessions.

SYNOPSIS

This course provides a comprehensive review of the superannuation and retirement planning industry in Australia.
