RATIONALE

Early childhood education draws on a range of educational and care services that work together to support the well-being of children and their families. It is important that students appreciate the network of services that are available in the community and to understand the ways in which these services can complement the work of early childhood educators. An understanding of the need for interagency co-operation in the educare of children is expected in these times when children and their families have high expectation of teachers and carers. Teachers must have the skills and knowledge to work with those outside the traditional education contexts and to appreciate the complexities and contributions of their work. Teachers must also be aware of the variety of education and care contexts from which children may come, into their classrooms.

SYNOPSIS

In light of the diversity of early childhood settings, this non supervised experience will explore individual and group management in learning environments. Accessing appropriate resources (including human, material and web-based) and the development of community partnerships and the development of community partnerships will be highlighted. The ideals of early childhood philosophy and pedagogy will be practised in order to effectuate professional decision making in organising a creative learning environment, developing assessment tools and curriculum design. Using knowledge related to policy change, legal and ethical requirements, leadership and management issues, students will further develop professional and organisation roles and responsibilities. NOTE: Minimum enrolment numbers apply to this offering. Should enrolments not reach the minimum number required for on-campus study, students may be transferred to the EXT or WEB offering and advised of this change before semester commences.

OBJECTIVES

The course objectives define the student learning outcomes for a course. The assessment item(s) that may be used to assess student achievement of an objective are shown in parenthesis. On completion of this course students will be able to:
