RATIONALE

This course is designed to enable students to gain practical insights into the unique managerial challenges associated with starting, managing and growing a small to medium sized enterprise (SME). While the SME sector is of vital significance to all economies in terms of employment levels and contribution to gross national products, it nevertheless continues to be characterised by high failure rates and unsatisfactory performance levels. This course, directed as it is towards professionals, intending entrepreneurs and owners and managers of SMEs, seeks to ultimately improve overall success rates and performance levels in the sector.

SYNOPSIS

This course addresses the three critical areas within the 'history' of an SME. These include development and planning, management and implementation and business future. In the development and planning section, students will be asked to address all issues which contribute to the writing of an appropriate business plan. In the management and implementation section issues relating to the successful implementation of the business plan and on-going functional management tasks will be addressed. Finally, the business future section will examine issues which impact upon the future direction of the SME, including impacts of environmental factors and growth aspirations. Throughout the course, students will be required to continually apply the concepts and principles to their selected SME case enterprises. Reference will also be made to many other SMEs to provide as wide a context mix as possible.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course students should be able to:

1. provide a definition of a SME within the Australian context
2. identify and contrast how a SME differs from a large business
3. discuss the differences found amongst SMEs elsewhere in the Asia Pacific region
4. list and appraise the key factors that typically contribute to the ongoing success of a SME
5. list and appraise the key factors that typically cause SMEs to fail
6. define and describe the personal characteristics of entrepreneurs
7. list and describe the components of a comprehensive business plan for SME
8. apply the processes for evaluating the viability of businesses and business concepts
9. construct an effective business plan for a SME.

This must be produced within 24 hours if required by the examiner. (iii) In accordance with university policy, the examiner may grant an extension of the due date of an assignment in extenuating circumstances. (iv) The examiner will normally only accept assignments which are electronically submitted through the USQ Study Desk for this course. Students who are unable to meet this submission requirement should contact the examiner of the course to negotiate alternative arrangements.
- 2 Text books: Please note that it is the responsibility of the student to acquire a copy of the text book as soon as their enrolment in the course has been confirmed.
