SYNOPSIS

This is the foundation course for the peace studies major. It establishes the parameters of the field of Peace Studies and begins by introducing students to the concepts of negative peace - the absence of war and civil strife - and positive peace which is founded upon a just society and global community. It will explore these concepts from the global to the personal and develop student skills in negotiation, non-violent resistance, empathy and conflict resolution. Peace studies aims to introduce students to non-violent social structures and how they transform traditional hierarchical structures, and to the importance of human rights and eco-sustainability in building a peaceful society. This course will introduce students to key concepts in peace studies from an international, national, local and personal perspective.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course, students should be able to:

1. recognise, define, and use the essential terminology of peace and conflict studies;
2. analyse the causes of conflict;
3. illustrate a deep understanding of nonviolence in theory and practice through selected case studies;
4. make judgments about ways to achieve peaceful outcomes through negotiation, compromise or conflict resolution techniques;
5. display an understanding of empathy with others;
6. critically analyse rhetoric;
7. appreciate the need for peace to incorporate both positive and negative forms.
