Program objectives

The Master of Applied Linguistics (Honours) will provide students who possess demonstrated academic and professional competence, the opportunity to study at an advanced level in specific areas related to language education.

On completion of this program, students will have demonstrated the ability to:

- critically analyse relevant professional issues affecting current educational practices in the area of applied linguistics and language learning and teaching
- locate and critically assess the relevance and value of recent research in the area of applied linguistics and language learning and teaching
- acknowledge and rationalise the importance of legal and ethical considerations in the conduct and evaluation of research
- plan clear research designs and select and use appropriate methods of treatment in significant research projects
- develop, present and defend research proposals and conclusions to supervisors and fellow students
- design, develop and implement a research study in their chosen area of specialisation.

Admission requirements

Normal Admission Requirements

To be eligible for admission to the Master of Applied Linguistics (Honours) applicants must:

- (1) have completed an undergraduate degree and completed an education qualification, or a Bachelor of Education (four-year degree), or an equivalent four-year qualification in education
- (2) have demonstrated a high level of academic achievement in their previous undergraduate studies (GPA of 5.8 or higher)
- (3) have an acceptable level of relevant professional experience, which normally would include two years of involvement in professional education or equivalent activities, with a record of appropriate professional achievement and leadership.

Special Admission Requirements

Where candidates do not meet the above criteria, but are deemed to have equivalent qualifications and experience, they may gain entry into the program. Depending on their background such 'special entry' candidates may be required to pursue additional background studies in second language education to a maximum of two units as determined by the Dean in consultation with the Program Coordinator.

Program fees

Commonwealth supported place

A Commonwealth supported place is where the Australian Government makes a contribution towards the cost of your higher education and you as a student pay a student contribution amount, which varies depending on the courses undertaken. You are able to calculate the fees for a particular course via the Course Fee Finder.

Commonwealth Supported students may be eligible to defer their fees through a Government loan called HECS-HELP.

Domestic full fee paying place

Domestic full fee paying places are funded entirely through the full fees paid by the student. Full fees vary depending on the courses that are taken. You are able to calculate the fees for a particular course via the Course Fee Finder.

Domestic full fee paying students may be eligible to defer their fees through a Government loan called FEE-HELP.

International full fee paying place
