Program focus

The Doctor of Professional Studies is designed to enable professionals to engage in the highest form of authentic learning: to study as they engage in real world, real time activity; and to combine their work and study in ways that lead to benefits for both the individual and the organisation by creating new knowledge for professional use. Accordingly, the program aims to provide opportunities for professionals with the appropriate entry qualifications that enable them to critically review resources, to address theoretical and practical questions and issues in their workplace field, and to design and implement projects to further investigate these questions and issues. It is expected that the documented results of these projects would be used to improve one or more aspects of the workplace.

Program objectives

Successful completion of the program will enable graduates to:

- develop a workplace-based learning plan that integrates theory and practice
- demonstrate analytical, critical and creative thinking in workplace applications
- postulate directions for investigation of unsolved problems in their workplace
- undertake and write reports on projects relating to their workplace in a professional manner
- demonstrate a high level of skill in identifying, choosing and implementing procedures appropriate for addressing issues, ideas and concepts
- demonstrate an awareness of the limitations of their projects and manage these limitations
- demonstrate a high level of skill in assessing and addressing ethical/confidential concerns in their study and related work activity
- report the results of their projects concerning changes to their workplace in a manner appropriate to their audience
- enhance the knowledge base of their workplace, organisation or professional group(s);
- plan the implementation of possible changes to their workplace resulting from their research.

Program completion requirements

To graduate from the Master of Professional Studies program a candidate must complete, or be exempted from, twenty-four course units comprising:

- three courses WBL8000 Workplace-based Learning Portfolio, WBL8001 Workplace-based Learning Plan, and WBL8002 Workplace-based Complementary Studies
- five workplace-based learning project units selected from WBL8010WBL8020(2 units)WBL8030(3 units)
- The sixteen (16) workplace-based Level 9 project courses WBL9001 to WBL9016 with at least 12 of these units being completed as part of the program

All students must attend a compulsory workshop at the weekend following the first week of their first and second semester of enrolment for courses WBL8000 and WBL8001 respectively. No students will be granted exemptions from these two courses or the workshops.

During these workshops, students will have opportunities to:

- be guided through the process of compiling a Learning Portfolio
- be assisted to develop a Learning Plan
- consider requirements for projects
- consult with their advisor
- network with other students to form support groups.

Required time limits

Students have a maximum of 9 years and a minimum of 3 years to complete this program.

Coursework

All students must complete the two courses WBL8000 and WBL8001 either whilst in this program or as part of the Master of Professional Studies program. Appropriate knowledge, skills, understanding and expertise required to implement the Level 8 and Level 9 project(s) will have to be outlined in the Learning Portfolio, or must be covered in WBL8002. In some cases, it will be possible to learn relevant skills as part of the project courses, provided the learning methodology is included in the Learning Plan.

IT requirements

Computer literacy is now expected as part of professional life, and as an integral element in the studying and learning process. Many courses make use of the Internet through online discussion groups and course web pages. Some courses require substantial access to a computer because computer software or CD-ROMs are integral to the material being taught in the course. Students will be required to make use of up-to-date computer technology to facilitate learning, research, and the production of assessment material. A USB2 web-camera may be useful to facilitate communication with USQ Advisors.

Students are referred to recommended hardware and software requirements at <http://www.usq.edu.au/its/students/standards/default.htm>.

Twenty-four hour computer access is available at USQ.

Articulation

A graduate from the Master of Professional Studies program may articulate into the Doctor of Professional Studies program. Students who have completed or partially completed the Master of Professional Studies program will be given full credit for all courses completed or exemptions given whilst studying that program.

Exit points

The exit point for students who do not complete the requirements of the Doctor of Professional Studies is the Master of Professional Studies. To be eligible for the award of Master of Professional Studies, students must complete the requirements for that award.

Exemptions

The Learning Portfolio developed in WBL8000 Workplace-based Learning Portfolio may be submitted for formal assessment of prior learning, but such assessment will incur an additional charge equivalent to the fee for one unit. Assessment of the Learning Portfolio is the only method of applying for consideration for exemptions for this program. The number of credits granted will vary according to both the level of formal qualifications gained and to the deemed level of informal experience and expertise that can be shown to be of relevance to the program within the portfolio. USQ is a participating university in Education Queensland's Professional Development Pathways initiative, and appropriate credit will be given in accordance with the scheme. For further information on this initiative please contact http://education.qld.gov.au/staff/development/employee/teachers/pd_pathways/pd_pathways_contact.html.
