

USQ ALLY

Network Newsletter

Issue #30 October 2018

Welcome to our October edition of the Ally Network Newsletter. Look out in this edition for a report on the Bi Day of Visibility and the on-campus activities that occurred this month.

Please don't forget that we are always on the look out for interesting articles, information about events and professional development opportunities to include in the Ally newsletter. Please email ally@usq.edu.au to share your points of interest.

Ally Network Natters

October saw our last Ally Network Natter for the year! Thank you to all who have joined us throughout 2018 for the Natters! If there are any you missed or would like to revisit, as a registered Ally you can access the recordings on the Ally Network StudyDesk here.

We will be kicking off again in March 2019. In the meantime, please feel free to contact us at ally@usq.edu.au with any suggestions, referrals or volunteers for guest speakers!

LGBTIQ+ Awareness Training

We held a successful session on 12th October, with one more training opportunity now left before the end of the year!

Participants will be eligible to become formally recognised as a USQ Ally.

When? Tuesday 27th November, 10am-12.30pm

Where? Online webinar

How? Register here for the November session or email Ally@usq.edu.au for more information

So please refer any interested parties so that we can build our numbers!

Bi Visibility Day

23rd September was Bi Visibility Day. The USQ Pride Club had fun activities on each campus, such as tie dye and a Bi-Metre quiz to test where you land on the sexual orientation continuum!

Intersex Awareness Day

October 26th was Intersex Awareness Day, a day to acknowledge those in the population who identify as intersex and highlight their human rights. USQ Pride marked the day by sharing the good word, along with some cookies! Find out MORE about what intersex is.

Elite, Netflix's super gay teen drama, has been renewed for season 2

LGBTQ fans have been pleasantly surprised by the unexpectedly queer series. Elite boasts two gay characters, a few bisexuals, polyamory, and even a plotline destigmatizing HIV. Combine that with the high stakes of teen drama, a beautiful cast, and a murder mystery, it's no wonder the show's garnered such a rabid fan base! MORE
