

WHERE WE ONCE CAME

12 days away
From our destination.
The storm bellows in the background
From where we once came.

The captain's plan was tempting,
But now we regret it.
Our family reaches out,
From where we once came.

We're finally here
It's so different.
People everywhere,
But they're all clean...
"New clothes", is all that we hear,
"And then off to the pub!"
But all we want to do is go home
To where we once came.

Now we're on the inside
Where the snake eyes live.
Nobody here has seen us,
Like where we once came.

We scratch, scratch, scratch.
But can't get cool.
Like the heart of the white fella,
Who now rules.
And now we wonder,
"Will we be accepted?"
When we return to the place
From where we once came.
