SYNOPSIS

This course serves as an introduction to Australian literature and the role it plays in the formation of cultural identities. It seeks to examine the heterogeneity of Australian culture through its literature and will direct particular attention to the way in which literature contests social, cultural and political orthodoxies. NOTE: Students who have already passed the unit 97220 will not be permitted to enrol in this course.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course students will demonstrate:

- a knowledge of a number of the themes which characterise Australian fiction.
- the ability to analyse literary texts as the productions of particular social, cultural and political formations.
- a capacity to express an analytical argument in written form.
