RATIONALE
The opportunity to explore and critically evaluate widely-accepted practices and emerging trends is an essential feature of the pre-service program of any profession. To develop as a profession, early childhood educators will need to address constant demands for change, development and response to emerging issues at local as well as international levels. This course provides such an opportunity for early childhood educators.

SYNOPSIS
The course explores historical and contemporary issues related to many facets of the care and education of young children. Particular emphasis will be given to when, where and how early education takes place. Students will be expected to read in depth in a number of areas presented for study.

OBJECTIVES
Upon completion of this course, the student will be able to:

- identify current local, national and international issues and trends in the education and care of young children;
- evaluate critically the social, educational, political and economic bases of current issues and trends in early childhood education;
