OTHER-REQUISITES
Pre-requisite: Undergraduate Corporate Law Course.

RATIONALE
As company law becomes more complex, both professional advisers and business people may benefit updating their knowledge of the legislation and its application to management and business practice. Recent corporate collapses and resulting inquiries have also increased the profile of the Australian Securities and Investments Commission and its role in corporate regulation.

SYNOPSIS
The course seeks to cover areas of corporate law which often receive little coverage in an undergraduate degree such as Public Companies, Takeovers and Corporate Finance. It also deals with management issues, for example director's liabilities, corporate offences and the role of the Australian Securities and Investments Commission.

OBJECTIVES
On successful completion of this course students will be able to:

- articulate the nature and extent of the corporate entity principle and to explain how this principle presently applies to the issue of corporate groups;
- apply legal principles to corporate governance in order to assess the responsibilities and potential liabilities of directors and other corporate officers;
- articulate the extent and application of the Corporations Law as it regulates the giving of financial benefits by public companies to related parties;
explain the nature of the floating charge and how statute and case law has regulated its registration, crystallisation and priority;

explain the procedures involved in the takeover of public companies and to relate the mechanisms for overseeing the interests of shareholders in the change of control;

describe the rationale for, effect of and process involved in the establishment of voluntary administrations and deeds of company arrangement in an insolvent or near insolvent company;

articulate the role and powers of the Australian Securities and Investment Commission in its regulation of the Australian corporate and securities market.
