SYNOPSIS

This course is designed to allow current business leaders to reflect on the topic of leadership in a systemic way by developing a framework and strategy for leadership development across a number of different contexts. The challenge of developing such a strategy will require students to ask not only what is required of a leader but what is required of leadership at all levels of an organisation facing different demands and environments. Students are expected to define what the organisational requirements are for leadership rather than the requirements for particular individuals. Students will then have to identify a range of developmental options before developing a coherent and defensible organisational strategy based on sound evidence and consultation.

OBJECTIVES

On successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- define the requirements for leadership across the entire organisation;
- identify the development options available to organisations; and
- develop a strategy appropriate to a specific as well as to contrasting organisational contexts.
