RATIONALE

Perceptual-motor development is central to other aspects of development, and movement is an important integrating medium through which young children learn about themselves and their world. Early childhood educators have a vital role in supporting young children's creative solving of problems through movement explorations and in promoting positive attitudes to physical activity from the earliest years. Early childhood educators require knowledge of the developmental nature and contextual influences on physical development in order to offer movement opportunities suited to the individual young child.

SYNOPSIS

This course examines young children's exploration of space, materials, environments and the potential of their own bodies through physical activity to establish a basis for skilful movement, creative problem solving and a positive image of self and active play. The course introduces foundational concepts in early childhood education including integration of child development, planning from child study, play as an educative vehicle and the role of the learning environment. Physical experiences for young children from birth to eight years will be related to children's thinking, sequential movement development, and contextual issues. Emphasis will be placed on children's personal achievement, self esteem and attitude towards physical activity.

OBJECTIVES

On completion of this course students will be able to:

- define connections between movement, thinking, disposition and context;
- demonstrate awareness of the purpose of perceptual motor experiences;
- select movement experiences and resources suited to children's development;
• plan environments and strategies to support movement exploration;
• relate observations to fundamental movement patterns of children 0-8 years;
• use movement experiences as integrating devices across all areas of learning and development.
