RATIONALE
Since the learning environment in early childhood programs is a core element of curriculum, the organisation and educational purpose of child-responsive environments is foundational knowledge for early childhood educators. They must be conscious of the impact of changes in the immediate human, physical and time environment, and aware of influences in the external sociopolitical and community context. These issues are of particular significance in programs for very young children as atmosphere or climate exerts a marked influence on children's personal comfort, health and safety, responsiveness to experiences and interpersonal behaviour.

SYNOPSIS
Effective learning environments in early childhood education are characterised by flexibility and responsiveness to children and are planned in relation to a range of ecological and educational considerations. At a macro level, a variety of social, economic, political and educational trends impact on policy and regulatory requirements and on family or community expectations. At a micro level, organisation of a learning environment, including not only physical issues but also time and interpersonal issues, is modified regularly in response to the current interests and progress of children and the needs of staff and parents. In this course, learning environment across the age range birth to eight years is explored, then concepts are applied to educate programs for children under 4 years of age. This course emphasises literacy correctness in all its forms.
OBJECTIVES

On completion of this course students will be able to:

1. recognise the impact of social, economic, political, and educational trends that impact on services for early childhood education and care;
2. define the roles of physical, time & human environments in early childhood programs;
3. outline regulations and curriculum documents as they relate to the learning environment in early childhood settings;
4. organise and modify responsive early childhood learning environments;
