OTHER REQUISITES
State law in Queensland (Australia) requires that all adults working/undertaking professional experience/researching with children under the age of 18, in the state of Queensland are required to possess a current suitability card (Blue Card). (See "Other Requirements" for further information.) Also see: http://www.childcomm.qld.gov.au/employment/bluecard/informationSheets.html

RATIONALE
Current conceptions of literacy are characterised by a multitude of different types of text, different constructions of text and different ways of analysing text. These current understandings and the consequent redefining of literacy within a socio-cultural context have meant that teachers and researchers have needed to consider their position and resulting practice, in relation to current and emerging literacy theory and issues. This course provides a link between literacy theory and practice and an opportunity to construct, deconstruct and reconstruct knowledge, by reflecting on current practice. This course will also require students to examine issues pertaining to student diversity, community literacies and assessment so providing an opportunity to prepare for an independent research project later in their program.

SYNOPSIS
This course will engage the student in a reflective critical analysis of their own position in relation to current and emerging literacy theory. Students will critically examine their existing knowledge and practice in relation to multiliteracies pedagogy and compose a position statement about literacy and their professional practice, which addresses current literacy theories and approaches. They will also be required to apply their position statement in a practical classroom context and demonstrate the change in their professional practice, with justification for the changes. This will highlight the links between theory and practice, and will incorporate such issues as student diversity, community literacies and assessment. NOTES: 1. This course is available through INTERNET (WEB) DELIVERY ONLY. 2. There are NO print materials for this course. 3. For details of the technical requirements and accessing Internet study materials, please consult the following URL: http://usqconnect.usq.edu.au.

OBJECTIVES
The course objectives define the student learning outcomes for a course. The assessment item(s) that may be used to assess student achievement of an objective are shown in parenthesis. On completion of this course students will be able to:

1. engage theories of literacy in order to redefine the concept of literacy (Assignment 1)
2. develop a position statement about literacy and/or literacy pedagogy (Assignment 1)
3. apply their knowledge about literacy theory to the planning and teaching of literacy, utilising current models of literacy practice (Assignment 2)
4. reconceptualise their views about pedagogy to align with a multiliteracies pedagogy (Assignment 2)
5. identify and explore contemporary issues in literacy practice. (Assignment 1 and 2)
