RATIONALE
The structure and operation of financial systems are of increasing importance for the conduct of business in all sectors of the economy, and for the general performance of the real economy. Students working in business need to understand the nature and operation of financial institutions and markets, and to be conversant with the changing range of financial products and their application. Further, they need to appreciate the significance of the global financial system and to understand the issues raised by the rapid changes that have occurred and are occurring in the operation and performance of international and the domestic financial systems.

SYNOPSIS
This course examines the structure, operation and performance of the global financial system, using principles of financial and monetary economics. Using the Australian financial system as a benchmark, students are introduced to a selection of financial markets, products and institutions, the operations of which largely determine key financial variables that affect decisions to save and invest in the real economy. Where appropriate, the linkages between Australia and the global system are demonstrated. In addition, a number of uniquely international financial institutions are examined, and the workings of several international financial centres discussed.
OBJECTIVES
The course objectives define the student learning outcomes for a course. The assessment item/s that may be used to assess student achievement of an objective is/are shown in parentheses after each objective. On successful completion of this course, students should be able to:

1. apply basic financial economic theory to explaining the workings of the domestic and international financial systems (Assignment, Examination)
2. demonstrate a working knowledge of the institutional framework for financing economic activity (Assignment, Examination)
3. demonstrate an understanding of the operation of domestic money and capital markets and of their linkages with global financial markets (Assignment, Examination)
4. analyse the effects of changes in the private financial system on economic activity (Assignment, Examination)
5. discuss issues covering the monitoring, regulation, structure, conduct and performance of both the domestic and international financial system (Examination)
6. demonstrate a working knowledge of the financial products that are available and their applications (Examination)
7. acquire an introductory understanding of risk management (Examination)
8. demonstrate a knowledge of the institutions set up to promote the efficient operation of the global financial system (Examination).

Students are to note on the assignment cover the date of the public holiday for the examiner's convenience.

2 Course weightings: Course weightings of topics should not be interpreted as applying to the number of marks allocated to questions testing those topics in an examination paper. The examination may test material already tested in assignments.
