REQUISITES
Pre-requisite: Students must be enrolled in one of the following Programs: BPSH or BPSB. Students enrolled in other degrees may be permitted to enrol in this course with the examiner’s approval.

RATIONALE
Much of the study in the course of the four years of this degree is aimed at teaching students to think like a professional psychologist. Largely this involves being able to think critically about any issue that arises and to be able to problem solve. In order to do this one needs a thorough understanding of how people learn, how they evaluate information and how they use it. Students also need to be aware of the shortcomings of the cognitive processes they bring to critical thinking and problem solving that are likely to lead to less than optimal outcomes.

SYNOPSIS
Critical thinking and problem solving skills are attributes that USQ affirms its graduates should have acquired upon completion of their degree. This course is aimed directly at fostering those skills. This is done by examining the topic from a range of perspectives. The techniques of critical thinking and problem solving are explicitly taught. In addition, the issue of bias and other types of cognitive limitations that produce erroneous solutions are also examined.

OBJECTIVES
On completion of this course students will be able to:

1. demonstrate an understanding of the psychological basis underpinning critical thinking and problem solving skills (All pieces of assessment);
2. apply critical thinking and problem solving skills in solving applied problems (In class assignment).
